Rheutan's term expired Dec. 31, 1935.

Other members of the board are Frank Stewart and E. F. Deagan. Harry Izenour, whose term as a member of the health board expired Dec. 31, 1935, was reappointed. Other members are Dr. J. M. McGeorge, R. K. Yates, Homer Silver and J. H. Campbell.

Schaefer; recording secretary, Lee Schaefer; assistant recording secretary, Matthias Liebhart; financial secretary, Elizabeth Buchner; treasurer, Andrew Drotz; trustees, George Theiss, L. Schaefer and Clarence Schmidt; deacons, Dr. Joseph Schmidt, Arthur Papesch, John Theiss, Emmanuel Maroscher and George Schneider.

In his annual message and report, Rev. Bauman commented that he has noticed in the past year that a greater joy has been experienced by the members of the church in their work. He said "I have noted your response and your willingness to be optimistic spirit and I have been convinced that you have the conviction that your labor in the kingdom of the Lord is not in vain."

Reports Are Made

As president of the congregation Rev. Bauman delivered his report on services of worship, holy communion, Sunday school, organization, and church finances.

During the past year, the church has baptized 28 and confirmed 25 children, received 31 adults, conducted 17 marriages and 16 funerals. The average attendance in the Sunday school was 182 while the English services of the church had an average attendance of 152 and the German services, 80. Rev. Bauman revealed that the figures show an increase in the attendance at the English services but a decrease in the German services. Holy communion was administered in six services last year.

The pastor spoke briefly in memory of eight members of the church who died during the year 1935. These eight deceased members are: Mrs. Emma Ullrich, George Konert, Andrew Schuller, Fred Hennig, John Lutsch, Martin Weber, Michael Schuster and Agnes Ullrich.

Leland Applies For Place With King of Kings

Dr. C. W. Leland of 131 South Lincoln ave., said today that he was intending to leave Salem in the near future to take over a position as an optometrist in the medical corps of Emperor Haile Selassie's Ethiopian army.

Dr. Leland made this announcement as he called The News to inquire Emperor Selassie's correct address.

Leland wrote to the King of Kings at the Royal palace at Addis Ababa a short time ago, telling of his willingness to join the emperor's medical unit.

Today he dispatched another letter to the Ethiopian ruler in which he indicated that he was ready to embark for the war-torn land as soon as transport papers and transportation funds were forwarded to him.

The doctor also was in receipt of a letter from John Scanlan, acting chief of the passport division of the United States department of state, calling attention to the fact that any person joining activities of a belligerent nation automatically forfeits his or her citizenship rights in this country.

Despite this fact, Leland said he is all set to join the emperor's medical forces.

The home, which carries on through the cooperation of interested persons, has received many donations and gifts of food and money in the last year and the board today expressed its appreciation for these gifts.

The annual election of the board was held recently, the group naming Mrs. Harry Young as president. Other members are: First vice president, Mrs. A. H. Kennedy; second vice president, Miss Mary B. McCarthy; third vice president, Mrs. Luella Harris; secretary, Miss Annie Blackburn; treasurer, Mrs. E. F. Stratton.

PARDONS COURT SPURNS PRISON SESSION PLAN

Removes Last Chance for Bruno to Make Personal Appearance

CHANCES TO LIVE ARE DIMINISHING

Hauptmann Insists That He Has Nothing More To Tell

(By Associated Press) TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 10.—The last hope of Bruno Richard Hauptmann to make a personal appearance before the court of pardons faded today when Governor Harold G. Hoffman's office announced the court would not meet at the state prison.

The governor, through William S. Conklin, his press aide, said the court convening tomorrow at 10:30 a. m., to consider Hauptmann's plea for clemency, would meet as usual at the executive offices.

A meeting at state prison would have been without precedent, but Governor Hoffman's delay in announcing where the court would sit had been taken by some as an indication he hoped for a last-minute statement from the man convicted of the Lindbergh kidnapping.

Will Say No More BY SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN, (Copyright, 1936, By The Associated Press) TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 10.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's insistence he has nothing new to tell decreased today his chances of escaping the electric chair.

Hauptmann, in questioning by Col. Mark O. Kimberling, prison warden, has refused to change the story he told at Flemington—that he received the Lindbergh ransom money from Isidor Fisch, his partner, who died in Germany.

Governor Hoffman's preparations for the pardons court hearing tomorrow included the assembling of trial exhibits for inspection.

Hoffman will deliver to the court a letter affirming Hauptmann's innocence, signed "J. J. Paulkner," a name that has long been one of the mysteries of the case.

The name was signed to a deposit slip in 1933 when $2,980 of the ransom money was put in a New York bank.

The governor said the signatures on the letter and slip were "similar." He submitted the letter to an unidentified handwriting expert.

The letter implied that Hauptmann had purchased some of the money.

Cooperation Of Citizens Aids In Local Government

Publisher Stresses Civic Duties, Explains Newspaper's Aims, In Kiwanis Club Address

Declaring that knowledge of local government and cooperative efforts to help bring about a higher degree of efficiency in government operation, is one of the most important duties of individual citizens, Ralph W. Hawley, publisher of The Salem News, dwelt largely on endeavors to build a better city as he addressed the Kiwanis club yesterday at the Memorial building.

His subject was "The Newspaper's part in Community Affairs."

Lauding the achievements of Kiwanis and other Salem organizations of a civic nature, he looked to the future, also, discussing prospective objectives, including the placing of street markers, continuation and expansion, if possible, of a street cleaning program, and the promotion in every way possible of additional housing facilities.

Urges Interest in Government He suggested that his hearers, and others as well, be interested in local government. "Your contacts with city officials should not be lost after you have elected them. They appreciate your cooperation and help," he pointed out, "and by studying with them their problems

STATE SPEEDS RELIEF PLANS

Assembly Believes Solution To Problem Is Near

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Jan. 10.—A burst of speed in the Ohio legislature put the state's two controversial, tangled problems—relief and finances—measurably nearer solution today.

The senate was expected to pass shortly a compromise 12 month relief program abolishing county relief directors and appropriating $10,500,000 for direct relief for six months.

Awaiting the house's return from a recess Monday was a new senate-approved revised biennial budget bill carrying $90,350,053 and restoring only $1,433,163 of the $3,785,000 Gov. Martin L. Davey vetoed from the original bill last June.

The senate also passed a pension appropriation measure of $9,000,000 for six months, earmarking the $1 gallonage tax on liquor. Liquor profits already go to old age pensions.

A senate-house conference committee reached tentative agreement last night on the compromise relief program.

County commissioners would

Driverless Truck Crashes Building

Luckily parked automobiles were as scarce as pedestrians at 9 a. m. today when a driverless beer truck rolled down West State st., and crashed into the Salem house, on the southwest corner of West State st., and South Howard ave.

Jay Cropper of Martins Ferry parked his truck near the top of the hill, on the right side of the street, and with his companion, Edgar Duck went to get a lunch.

Although the brakes had been applied and the truck put in gear, the vehicle shortly afterwards started forward and cut across to the left side of the street. The truck lumbered up the steps in front of the building and came to a stop after smashing several boards in the front. Only a fog light was bent on the truck.

Blaze at Mullins Plant Extinguished

Firemen were called to the plant of the Mullins Mfg. Corp. at 2:20 p. m. Thursday where a covering on a portable transformer in the yard of the plant caught fire. Shop workers extinguished the blaze before firemen arrived.

Loss was slight in a stubborn blaze which firemen fought early yesterday at the Salem China Co. plant on South Lundy ave. The fire was erroneously reported at the National Sanitary Co. plant.

Handicap Fails To Thwart Salem Lad; Wins Radio Job

Rotary Club Proud of Johnny Olexa, Buffalo Resident Now; Plays for High School Students

Johnny Olexa, 19, son of Mrs. Charles Olexa of 607 E. Third st., got a "break." And he capitalized on it.

The "break" came on the day that Johnny was given a chance to play his harmonica over radio station WGR in Buffalo, N. Y. One of the performers failed to present himself for a program and someone was needed to fill in the vacant time. Johnny was asked.

Snatching the opportunity, Johnny played his harmonica as he never had before. Because he knew radio fans liked request numbers, he played them and before he had finished his first broadcast, the radio station was besieged with calls for more of Johnny's harmonica playing.

A basket of fan mail poured in after his program and the youthful Salem lad, a cripple, was made an official member of WGR's radio family.

It wasn't necessary for Johnny to search for a commercial sponsor. The owner of a coal company in Buffalo had heard Johnny's harmonica playing when he was assisting one of the company's trucks. He was so impressed with Johnny's ability that he sent him to WGR for the audition which brought success.

Johnny had 22 weeks' engagement on the coal company program, each one hour in length, during the year and has just been given a renewed contract for this year.

Before leaving for Buffalo, after spending the holidays with his mother, Johnny gave a program for the students of Salem high school this morning. Along with George Wukotich, who plays the guitar, he sang jokes and played the harmonica and guitar for the high school students.

Johnny's road to success has not been scattered with roses. A cripple, he was found by the Salem Rotary club. His father, a railroad section hand, could not provide the proper medical care, and so the club took Johnny under its wing and furnished the money for all treatment.

As in many cases where the Rotary club has assisted crippled children, Johnny showed improvement and was soon able to walk with the aid of braces. The club members, who furnish the transportation to the hospital in Youngstown, became attached to Johnny. His sparkling personality and exceptional ability with the harmonica made him a favorite everywhere.

Johnny, with his family, moved to Cherry Creek, N. Y., near Buffalo, several years ago but the Rotary club continued to follow his progress. There is probably no other prouder of Johnny's success than this club, which has aided him to such an extent that today he walks without the aid of braces. His family recently returned to Salem.

Johnny's ambition is to be a lawyer. He plans to enter Ohio State university and is now saving his money so that he may realize this ambition.

Little Alfred Pulls Back Rubber Band— Stops Balloon Act

(By Associated Press) ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 10.—An unclothed—she appeared that way, anyway—fan dancer tripped across the stage here last night behind a six-foot practically transparent balloon.

Little Alfred, aged 10, (who bet a pal 25 cents he would do it), pulled back with a rubber band and let fly with a ball of inflow.

Bang! went the balloon. Away went the dancer, fleeing to the wings.

Ah! breathed the audience. An usher grabbed Alfred and took him to the manager's office. Later the dancer obtained a spare balloon and continued but the manager said the effect of the dance had been ruined utterly.

Meanwhile Alfred's parent was summoned and told the balloon would cost him $28. Thereupon he marched Alfred home to get what good parents give all naughty little boys.

Spurns $1,000 Offer For 1832 Gold Piece

LISBON, Jan. 10.—A $5 gold piece which Calvin O. Ackers "purchased from Roy Custer, a WPA worker, today was believed by coin collectors to be dated 1832, and consequently valued highly.

Custer, working on the Logtown route project near here, unearthed the coin several days ago.

Ackers said he already has been offered $1,000 for the coin. He has placed it in a bank vault "until the highest bidder comes along," as he puts it.

MORGAN DENIES PANIC CHARGES

Munitions Group Says Banking House Forced Wilson to Loan

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—J. P. Morgan whaled away today at a senator's charge that his big banking house brought on a foreign exchange panic in 1915 in order to force Woodrow Wilson to permit loans to the allies.

Putting away his much-used pipe the better to make his point, he sternly told the senate munitions committee his form "never did such a thing in our lives."

Withdrawal Apparent
Repeatedly Senator Clark (D-Mo) contended it was plain from documentary evidence that Morgan's support of the British pound was withdrawn, with resultant complications for America's booming war trade, to force Wilson's hand.

The banker replied the house of Morgan had acted under orders from England, for which it bought $3,000,000,000 of goods in the war-time.

"They didn't give us their reasons at all times by any means," he laughed, then added sharply:

"There have been direct accusations that New York bankers fought on the war. That is one of the things we haven't been particularly pleased with and one of the things I want to deny."

Wilson Lifted Ban
There was evidence that, after the foreign exchange panic, Wilson let down the bars to loans he had forbidden previously on the grounds of neutrality.

High in the evidence today was a letter written Wilson shortly afterward by Robert Lansing, his secretary of state. Lansing had succeeded William Jennings Bryan, who feared American loans to the allies would embroil this country in the conflict.

"Manifestly the government has committed itself to the policy of discouraging general loans to belligerent governments," Lansing said. But on the other hand, he continued, "we are face to face with what appears to be a critical economic situation, which can only be relieved apparently by the investment of American capital in foreign loans to be used in liquidating the enormous balance of trade in favor of the United States."

At the outset of today's hearing Morgan took the offensive with a flat denial that his company manipulated foreign exchange to influence the change in neutrality policy.

CIVIC DUTIES ARE STRESSED

Publisher Explains Newspaper Aims In Kiwanis Club Talk

A newspaper has three important objectives, the speaker said, listing the desire to build; the establishment of community leadership; and building proper conceptions of motives.

"The newspaper seeks the confidence of the public and strives in every way possible to protect it. It goes into your homes without selfish motives, although its motives sometimes are misconstrued and other motives deliberately laid at its feet. It acts to inspire an honorable, constructive sense of duty among the citizenry, community leadership that devolves upon all of us, in all lines, social, civic and industrial."

Education Record High
"And I might place educational life at the top of the list," Hawley said. "Salem's past record in the educational field has been excellent and with the cooperation of the public, that standard will be maintained."

The newspaper, the speaker pointed out, strives to build a proper conception of any project it may help to sponsor. "I might say there is no motive, in the ordinary sense of the word, save that of building. Some few may use the term, 'they have an ax to grind,' but I have known the Salem News for many years and it has no 'axes to grind,' unless development of the community may be so construed."

Hawley hit the time-worn stories of "graft" among newspapermen; that is, as wild-eyed fiction may show the newspaperman accepting money to insert something in the paper or keep something out. Employees of no institution have a keener sense of loyalty and more deeply instilled code of ethics, he said.

The newspaperman has his frailties and makes mistakes, as any human being, Hawley pointed out, but this is not one or them. The newspaperman who accepts such graft, is not long a newspaperman.

He expressed doubt whether any business could show fewer mistakes when the speed at which a newspaper is produced, is taken into consideration. Mistakes in other lines of business may be duly corrected and covered up. But when a newspaper goes out, its out and unrecalled. However, he added, the newspaper does help, at times, to cover up the mistakes of others.

PARDONS COURT PLANS MEETING

$50,000 ransom bills as "hot money."

The letter said the writer could not go into further details "for personal reasons."

"As far as (D. John H.) Condon is concerned," it said, "you would be well advised to take his assertions with a grain of salt. He has reasons."

School for Tenants Proposed

School for tenants urged.
Recent organization in Washington, D. C., of a school for landlords at which prospective managers of federal housing units will be trained calls attention to the need for a school for tenants. Such an institution could educate the renter in the most effective ways of getting the rent reduced, how to convince the landlord he should make necessary repairs, how to break a lease, the best manner in which to handle the bailiff when he comes around with eviction notice merely because the rent hasn't been paid for a year, and other courses which would be invaluable to the average renter. It is conceivable that the renters of America, if they kept a united front on the issue, might form a militant third party based on the platform, "Training for Tenants", and prove a formidable foe to the New Deal and its paternalistic attitude toward landlords.

Highway Patrolmen O.K. School Buses

Local state highway patrolmen announced today that their inspections of school buses throughout Columbiana, Mahoning county and parts of Portage county had been completed.

Talks on "Safety" were delivered at the schools where the buses were inspected.

STATE SPEEDS RELIEF PLANS

Assembly Believes Solution To Problem Is Near

have sole administrative responsibility under the supervision of a state relief commission. Still unsettled was the question of whether or not the commission members would be paid.

Paul P. Yoder, senate Democratic floor leader and a frequent critic of "highly paid relief officials," said that if it was decided to pay the commission, no relief official would receive more than $150 a month. If the commission is unpaid, he said, the $150 limit will not apply to five executive employees.

Limits Administrative Costs
The program would limit administrative costs to five per cent. Counties would match 25 per cent of the state allocations after June 30 or receive no money.

Four and a half million dollars of the appropriation would come from sales tax revenues and $6,000,000 from the general fund.

If the house approves the senate appropriations bill, which is for 1936 only and leaves 1935 appropriations intact, a deficiency bill still will be necessary to make up deficiencies left by Davey's vetoes.

Ohio State university, center of much of the budget controversy because of protests against a $126,500 slash, would receive a $518,500 restoration.

Other legislative action included: Senate—reconsideration and passage of a bill by Sen. William Zou (D-Cuyahoga) to remove the limit on liquor permits in cities of more than 275,000 population; passage of a bill by Sen. Robert Pollock (R-Stark) to permit subdivisions to issue bonds in anticipation of delinquent tax collections; concurrence in house amendment to a bill repealing the act requiring payment of a $25 inspection fee on automobiles purchased outside Ohio.

Sen. Philip Wolfe (R-Richland) offered two banking bills. One would permit claimants against closed institutions who have not filed their claims within a prescribed time to share only in the residue of assets after final distribution. The other would help maintain the state banking department from general revenues.

CHICAGO—Dr. William Beebe, noted bathyspherist, has proved he is as much at home in the air as below sea level, for he flew in one of the United Air Lines' coast-to-coast passenger planes at an altitude of 9,000 feet, a height of three times his record descent into the sea, which was 3,028 below sea level.

DES MOINES, Ia.—A driver isn't always necessary in all auto accidents, state motor vehicle statistics revealed. In one month, six accidents were reported, involving moving, driverless automobiles. Failure to set brakes on hills and inclines allowed the cars to roll away.

SEES APPROVAL OF LITTLE AAA

Agricultural Expert Believes Ohio Farmers Will Cooperate In New Program

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Jan. 10.—An agricultural expert predicted today that Ohio farmers "undoubtedly will cooperate" in a proposed "little AAA" program to supplant the invalidated agricultural adjustment administration program.

F. C. Ramsower, director of the Ohio State agricultural extension, disclosed also that the department of agriculture planned the "little AAA" a voluntary soil conservation and crop rotation program, before the supreme court decision holding the AAA unconstitutional.

Touring the state to sound out farm sentiment, Ramsower pleaded for inter-state cooperation on the program.

"The farmer's problems know no state lines," he said. "If we are unable to get cooperation from other states, we will go ahead in Ohio and do a lot of good. But to make the program most effective, all states interested in the same crops should work together."

It was a national plan in the beginning—something far more fundamental and permanent than the AAA. The AAA was strictly an emergency program. The new program looks not only to improving the lot of this generation of farmers, but to the next and to succeeding generations as well. "Had the supreme court upheld the AAA, this program would have gone ahead anyway."

Sets Off Bombshell

Alvin S. Wendel

Two incidents reflecting the supreme court decision against the AAA caused a sensation in Iowa and other sections of the midwest farm belt, one occurring at Ames, Ia., where the six justices who doomed the AAA were hanged in effigy, and the other coming from Bronson, Ia., where Alvin S. Wendel denounced the court's ideas as "antiquated" and "nineteenth century." Wendel, head of an organization which raised a huge war chest to defend the AAA, also questioned the motives of the six justices.

Veteran Barberton Quintet Faces Quaker Team Tomorrow

BUCKEYE TRACK TEAM COMPETES IN 14 MEETINGS

ix Will Be Indoor Events And The Others Will Be Outdoor Meets

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10.—Ohio state university's track team has a busy winter and spring ahead of it, with 14 meets scheduled. Six will be indoor events, and the others outdoor.

Coach Larry Snyder said today that the team will make their first start in the Millrose games at 1 at New York. He has not decided on the size of the squad, but probably one or two of the boys will go to the eastern meet. The team will compete with Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and the West Virginia relay, are sandwiched between the Millrose games and the ten indoor event at Chicago, March 14.

Headline Meet

The headline of the outdoor season will be the Western conference meet here May 22 and 23. Snyder said it might be held at the Ohio state university track. The dual meet with Southern California at the Buck stadium here is another top-notch attraction.

The bucks are minus their captain and outstanding performer, Jesse Owens, for the indoor meets. He was declared ineligible because of scholastic difficulties at the end of the fall quarter, but is expected back in the fold in time for the indoor clashes.

Here's the Bucks schedule: Indoor meets: Feb. 1—Millrose games at New York; Feb. 15—West Virginia relays at Morgantown, W. Va.; Feb. 22—Dual meet at Indiana; Feb. 29—Dual meet at Illinois; March 6—Dual meet at Michigan; March 14—Dual meet at Chicago.

Outdoor meets: April 24 and 25—Penn relays at Philadelphia; May 22 and 23—Dual meet at Michigan here; May 29—Dual meet with Michigan and Notre Dame at South Bend; May 16—Dual meet at Wisconsin; May 22 and 23—Western conference meet at Columbus; June 5—Central colleges at Milwaukee; June 13—Southern California at Columbus; national colleges, date and place undecided.

ALLISON TOPS TENNIS RANKS

Texas Is Leading Prospect For U. S. Davis Cup Team

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Wilmer Allison, despite his recent defeat by Arthur Hendrix, young Florida player, again led as a candidate for the United States Davis Cup team today after topping the national tennis rankings for the second year.

The rankings, marked by a wholesale revival in the "first ten," also placed the youthful Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., and Bryan M. (Buzzy) Grant, of Atlanta, in the forefront of cup team prospects.

Budge, ranked ninth last year, his first time in the Big Ten, was advanced to second place, and Grant was moved from tenth to third. The 31-year-old Allison, conqueror of England's Fred Perry in the national championships, has been a "first ten" player for eight successive years.

Others in First Ten

The others in the first ten: Frank A. Shields, Sidney Wood, and Gregory S. Mangin, New York; Frank Parker, Milwaukee; J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J.; Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C.; and Berkeley Ball, New York.

The rankings, which will not become official until the formality of approval is completed by the annual United States Lawn Tennis association at Philadelphia next month, list Helen Hull Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., as No. 1 woman player for the fourth successive year.

Her only rival for the place, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, was unranked because of insufficient data. She played only in England last summer, winning the Wimbledon championship.

Liverpool Five Here For Game

Potters and Quakers To Clash at High School In Contest Tonight

MAGICS TO MEET SALEM TOMORROW

Barberton Rated One of Leading Cage Teams In District

Lifting the lid on their first full weekend of basketball activity with games booked for both Friday and Saturday nights the Salem High school Quaker cagers are host to the undefeated East Liverpool High Potters in a Columbiana county contest at the High school gymnasium at 8:30 tonight.

Previous to the varsity game, the Salem and East Liverpool reserve teams will clash, the contest scheduled to get under way at 7:30 p. m.

Expect Capacity Crowd

Following tonight's fray, which, according to advance sale of tickets, will probably be witnessed by a capacity crowd, the Quakers, defending champions of the N. E. O. Bix Six league, will open their loop season in an engagement with the Barberton High Magics on the High school floor at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

Noted as one of the leading teams of the district, Barberton will probably offer stiffer opposition than will the Potters whom the Quakers engage tonight.

The Magics have registered six victories in their seven games to date and of their varsity quintet all players are veterans. Massillon has been the only team able to defeat Barberton while four Akron teams, including the State champion North quintet, along with Niles and Wadsworth have been its victims.

Veterans

The veterans composing the Barberton varsity are Walter Klein, Karl Zalar, Dick Finebrock, Welby Broadus, Al Gerhardt, Joe Baker and Joe Ambruster. All of these experienced cagers are seniors except Broadus, who is a junior.

Zalar, forward, Gerhardt, center, and Kilen and Ambruster, guards, were regulars last season. Broadus fills in the vacant forward position to make the Magics' first five this year. Zalar was second high scorer of the Big Six league last year and is fifth in the rankings so far this season.

Besides his crew of veterans, Coach Karl W. Harter, the Magic's mentor, has several reliable reserves in Joe Gazaly, John Ries, Charles Makowsky and Theodore Panchak.

Tomorrow's game will mark the passing of the halfway point in the Barberton schedule. Only 14 games were booked for the Magics this season and the Quakers will be their eighth opponent.

WATTS REMAINS AS B-W MENTOR

Refuses to Accept $4,000 Job As Head Coach at Toledo University

BEREA, Jan. 10.—Ray Watts, who came here as football coach in 1928 and gave Baldwin-Wallace its brightest era in athletics, has decided to stay with the Yellow Jackets.

His decision last night left a $4,000-a-year position open at Toledo university.

Watts, tendered a one-year contract at Toledo, conferred with Dr. L. C. Wright, president of Baldwin-Wallace, and then announced that he was convinced "Baldwin-Wallace is the place for me to stay."

The coach was told, Dr. Wright said, that he could sign a contract for five years or longer and receive the same salary paid heads of other B-W departments. This was understood to mean he would receive a pay raise.

Watts, a former coach at West Tech High school, Cleveland, and both the Ohio conference basketball and football championships last year. His grid team was the highest scoring machine in the nation with 438 points in nine games.

For next fall Watts has been scheduling opponents never before tackled by B-W, including a game with Syracuse.

Dr. Wright said Watts was extremely popular with Alumni students and B-W townsfolk. His son is a High school athlete. Next summer Watts will receive a masters degree at Ohio State.

PROTECTION OF PLAYERS ASKED

High School A. A. Seeks Ways and Means for Gridiron Safety

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Ways and means for providing additional protection for prep football players were under consideration today as the rules committee of the National Federation of High School Athletic associations met for its annual two-day session.

It was likely, said Henry V. Porter of Chicago, secretary of the committee, that the intermission time between periods would be lengthened. The traditional one-minute rest between the first and second, and third and fourth sessions was expected to be increased to two or three minutes, and the 12 minutes between halves boosted to 15.

Suggest Extra Time

Porter said statistics indicate that most of the serious injuries on prep gridirons occur near the start of the second half. Feeling that lack of proper warming up may be partly responsible, coaches, in answers to questionnaires, have suggested an extra three minutes between halves devoted to limbering exercises.

The rule prohibiting roughing, or tackling a ball carrier after he has gone out of bounds, was due for strengthening. Porter said officials in the 14 states which have adopted the national federation code would be told to enforce strictly the anti-roughing rule.

Columbiana Meets Palestine Cagers

COLUMBIANA, Jan. 10.—Columbiana's annual "big" basketball game of the season will be played Friday evening on the local floor, when East Palestine High makes its annual visit.

Last year the red and white were victorious by a narrow margin 26-22 and Coach Wian's lads hope to repeat the victory, although the visiting team will be favored to win, due to their 45-23 victory over Boardman High on the Boardman floor, while Columbiana only defeated Boardman 16-14 on the same floor.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—A dozen pro star golfers ranked as favorites today in the 11th annual Los Angeles $5,000 open tournament.

The 129 qualifiers were scheduled to play 18 holes today, 18 tomorrow and the 36-hole championship round Sunday.

Other Stars

Other stars, lured westward for a shot at gold and glory staged out along California's winter tournament trail, included Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., who won the Los Angeles cup last year in a tough play-off with Johnny Revolta, and Sam Parks, the national open king.

Equally dangerous are Jimmy Hines, Long Island pro, who breezed in eight strokes in front to win the Riverside open last Sunday, Paul Runyan, leading professional low-scorer in 1935; Walter Hagen, anxious to regain his championship laurels; Craig Wood, Harry Cooper, Leo Diegel, Olin Dutra, Willie Hunter, Willie Goggin, Orville White, Jimmy Thompson, Henry Picard, and Ky Laffoon.

NEW LOW SUBURBAN and RURAL ELECTRIC RATE

The new Suburban and Rural Electric rates now in effect are among the lowest in the country. They make it possible for you to enjoy the realization of the complete Electric home. You can now cook, clean, enjoy Electric Refrigeration, know the economy of the home laundry, or enjoy better lighting. There are thousands of ways, thousands of opportunities now open to you, making it possible to enjoy more leisure, more happiness, and greater convenience.

EXPLANATION:

The base bill (Immediate Rate) is a reduction from the old rate. The amount of Electric current used during each month of 1935 is used to determine the base (the base already established for customers in Salem, Lisbon and Leetonia will be used) but the base bill is figured on the new IMMEDIATE RATE which is an immediate reduction, and also provides for FREE ELECTRICITY — then when you use all your FREE Electricity and more you automatically receive another reduction in that your entire bill will be figured on the new low Objective Rate.

CHAPTER XXXIII

Helen was just leaving the Terhune when Dirk came in. "I'm just leaving, Dirk." "Oh, what a shame. I've come in for some tea. Do stay, Helen, then we can go uptown together."

"Mother Terhune, I might as well move in; this is the second time I've been here this week, Dirk, and it's only Wednesday."

"We love having you."

"I bet you do, mother. Helen is like a breath of pure, wholesome air."

Helen looked at him compassionately. He seemed thinner than she had ever seen him and his face was worn and lined.

As if by one accord they started to walk uptown instead of taking a taxi as was his wont. It was already dusk of a dreary late December afternoon.

"What is it, Dirk? You always help me. I've just won a hard-earned victory on the subject of child-rearing. I'm in a victorious, triumphant mood. They say such a mood is contagious. Perhaps now I can help you. Please let me try."

"Helen, have you ever seen a man who clutched at a star and when he reached it down discovered it was only a piece of tin foil wrapped around a stick of wood and kept suspended in mid-air by wire?" "I don't quite understand, Dirk."

He laughed bitterly. "I thought my son, a boy of my own, would fill the void in my life. But he's not my son at all. He's Irene's scientific experiment. He's all Irene's. He's a triumph of science over love. Irene has a magnificent mind, an astonishing mind, although it wasn't her mind that I fell in love with."

He smiled wryly. "Love, Yes, I was in love with Irene. There are many species of love, Nellie, just as there are species of trees; there is romantic love—that's what you had; and materialistic love—that's Irene; and passionate love—that's what I had; and mother love and platonic love. I'm so depressed, Nellie, that sometimes I almost feel as if I can't bear it."

She pressed his arm. "But why, Dirk? After Irene is over the experimenting stage with Wells, you'll have a son. He'll be such a comfort to you, Dirk, a son of your own!"

He patted her hand. "Let's get a taxi; it's getting late. You're a darling, Helen. The only pity is I'm not easy to cure. My symptoms are too vague, too nebulous; and cures for a sick soul are not so easily found as for a sore throat."

He dropped her off first. Seeing him slumped in his seat, grim and pale in the street light, wrung her heart so that she nearly wept. "Be brave, Dirk. I need you. I need your strength and help. Don't cave in now, Dirk! You are so big and fine. You are the first and only dyed-in-the-wool gentleman I ever met in my life. Find something else to take their place. Oh, Dirk, go back to the tuberculosis association. Do something you really want to do!"

He smiled. "Don't worry about me, Nell. Everything will blow over, of course. Let's forget it. Let's blame it on this miserable day. No, it isn't a question now of one job or another, or even of the boy. Never mind. Run in now. You'll get cold standing here and don't worry about me. I'll be all right. Good night, Nellie."

"Good night, Dirk. Try a good stiff drink."

He laughed wryly. "I will. Good night."

Helen shivered as she hung up her hat and coat in the closet. The foyer was pleasantly warm and she stood gratefully against the radiator to warm her back.

"Is that you, Mrs. Riley?"

"Yes, Fredericks, what is it?"

"I'm here in the nursery. Grace isn't well."

Helen felt herself grow icy cold. "What is it?" She was beside the crib.

Miss Fredericks looked worried. "I took her temperature. It's one hundred two and a half. I've sent for Dr. Morgan. He'll be right up."

The bell rang at this moment and Mamie left the kitchen to admit the doctor.

"This is the first time she's ever been sick, Dr. Morgan. It's the very first cold she's ever had in her life."

"It's nothing to worry about Mrs. Riley. She's really an exceptional baby. It's nothing more probably than a winter cold. They're always more susceptible when they're cutting back teeth."

"But we've never had any trouble with the other teeth."

"That's because you're an exceptionally able mother. The weather is against you now though. This New York dampness is hard on everyone."

He examined the baby carefully. "Is it anything serious, doctor?"

"Are you the kind of a mother who isn't satisfied unless it's the worst?"

"Oh, no," Helen laughed a little, "but I'm quite anxious."

"Then don't worry. It's only a little chest cold. Be careful, of course, that it doesn't make headway. Rub her chest with the medicine I'm prescribing—a harmless camphor oil compound. Light diet; liquid; orange juice, milk—nothing else until the fever abates. I'm prescribing a cough medicine that you may give her every three hours. It's not a dope. I do not approve of giving young children. In a few days your baby will be as good as ever." He smiled cheerfully as he packed his bag.

"I feel better already, doctor."

"That's fine. I think it's as important at times to relieve the mother as to cure the baby. I can drive your nurse to the drug store. I'm passing that way."

"Thanks so much, Dr. Morgan."

Fredericks came back in a few minutes and silently Helen helped the nurse make the child comfortable for the night. Grace was just falling asleep when Helen heard Walter's key in the lock.

She tiptoed into the foyer to him. He looked tired and harassed and Helen could see by his brow that he had had a bad day. He shook the raindrops from his shoulder and shivered.

"Whew, what a night!" His face brightened as Helen put her lips up to be kissed.

"Hello, darling."

"What's the matter, Helen, you look white."

"Nonsense. Come and have dinner. You must be cold and starved, dear."

"Something's wrong. Baby all right?"

"Walter, dear, everything's all right now. Grace has a cold. The doctor's been here and now she's sleeping like an angel."

He stiffened. Without a word he stalked into the nursery. Helen at his heels.

Miss Fredericks was adjusting the ventilator.

"Sh. She's just fallen asleep."

Walter looked down at the baby. His face was ashen. "Whom did you call?"

"Dr. Morgan. He's a fine doctor. I like him a lot."

"How do you know he's a fine doctor?" Walter asked through clenched teeth.

He examined Grace thoroughly and said she was a fine specimen. He prescribed medicine and a chest rub. See, she's breathing nicely."

"Nicely? Listen to that cough!"

"Sh. Miss Fredericks warned. Walter stalked into the living room. "Why didn't you call a specialist?" he stormed. Helen watched the veins stand out in his throat. She felt herself grow hot with resentment.

"Because the child only has a cold."

"How do you know?" he rasped harshly. "If you had had the child under the care of a specialist as Irene suggested a long time ago she wouldn't be sick now."

"Walter, don't shout at me like that. You're tired and upset. Dr. Morgan is a good, sensible, common-sense doctor. He's honest. It is nothing serious he'd tell me so. Don't upset yourself dear over nothing."

"Nothing!" he raged. "How does he know it isn't diphtheria or some other disease? He's not a baby doctor. I insist that you call a specialist this instant."

She had never seen him in such a fury before and she was frightened.

"Very well." She picked up the telephone book with trembling hands. Her eyes were blurred with tears. She couldn't think of the specialist's name. She pressed her fingers to her eyes.

"Well!" he demanded.

"I can't think of his name," she said miserably.

"Well then for God's sake, call up Irene." Walter shouted. "Why are you sitting there like a ninny? You're so set against my family that you would sacrifice your own child rather than let them co-operate with you."

Helen very white now and calm, grimly called Irene's number.

"Irene, Grace is sick. Will you please give me the name of your baby specialist?"

Walter could hear Irene's voice in the room; could actually hear her triumphant tone.

"You see, my dear Helen, this is the result of your obstinacy. I don't like to gloat, my dear, but permit me one 'I told you so!' You may not be able to get the doctor. He is extremely busy. You know you just can't call him just for instance."

"What is his name?"

"Dr. Asche. I'll call him. He may not come for you. But he will for my niece. I'll call you back." She hung off.

"Irene will call him," Helen said in the same quiet voice.

"You see, when there is trouble there is no one like my sisters. They'll stick through thick and thin. This just proves it."

Helen's face was a white mask. She said no word.

Walter opened his lips to speak but something in her rigid attitude restrained him. He contented himself with pacing up and down the living room. The phone rang.

"Yes," Helen said.

"I'm coming right over with Dr. Asche," Irene snapped and hung up the receiver.

"What'd she say?"

"She's coming with the doctor."

Walter resumed his pacing. Helen sat without moving, her eyes unseeing, her hands clenched in her lap.

Walter looked at her uneasily but said nothing. The only sound was the beat of the rain against the window panes and the ticking of the clock on the mantel.

"What a night!" Walter muttered. Helen never moved.

Mamie stuck her head in. She sensed the strained situation.

"Supper?"

"Later," Walter answered. (To Be Continued)
